

Who is Promobot?

Promobot – this is the first on the market, completely self-contained “live” with a robot character. It is designed to work in areas of high concentrations of people in which the robot helps people with navigation, answers any questions, translates promotional materials and remembers everyone with whom had to communicate.

Promobot attract maximum audience of the advertised product, and also excludes people from this process, because it works independently. Suffice it to start the robot, and then the robot will independently recognize people, to offer them to promote products and advise on predetermined topics.

Purpose and goal of the system:

- Attracting customers stream;
- Automation of the process of consultation;
- Increase customer loyalty;
- Reducing the risks associated with the human factor.
